The seal of Lansing, Michigan, is a circular emblem. It features a central illustration of the Michigan State Capitol building, a large dome-topped structure with classical columns. Behind the building is a bright sun with numerous rays extending outwards. On either side of the building are two large, leafy trees. Below the building is a winding river. The entire scene is enclosed within a circular border. The words "LANSING, MICHIGAN" are written in a serif font along the bottom half of the border.
